What is autism?

Autism is a symptom of poisoning.

It is caused by a buildup of poisons that keep the cells stuck in a state of stress.

If this is not known in the 21st century, that's because it is being hidden in purpose, caused in purpose, and being all based upon the ignorance of the people, but even worse, upon the cowardice of those in the know.

There is all a system mounted to make the people think that the affected is "dumb", and to make the affected think that the rest are the "neurotypicals".

The solution of autism, besides not putting more poisons in, is cleaning the blood and the cells. The best way will always be through hemodialysis, which is the panacea of a lot of chronic illnesses.

Just simply cleaning the blood, from all the poisons, specially those that practically don't go out without a treatment like this, is the way to stop many diagnoses of ambiguous terms, showing and putting in evidence the disaster caused by the pharmaceutical industry, indoctrinating and paying off their partners in crime, the supposed doctors.

Hemodialysis has always been dissuaded, making it look like something that is only for cases of renal failure, and the rest of the people wouldn't need it, because for that "they have already got the kidneys".

That is an excuse, out of context, in a 21st century in which we come exposed to a lot of poisons, specially existing some that don't go out of the blood and the body normally.

These would be, for example, organochlorines, the major causants of "autism".

Organochlorines are supposedly "pesticides", pay attention to the between comas, because under that excuse it was permitted their production and circulation.

In the countries called developed, or "first-world", it was forbidden their use many decades ago, because of having understood how dangerous they were.

The other countries outside that group, were left adrift to whatever happened.

But these poisons were still used in all the countries, beyond if ones were doing better than others.

Hidden in some vaccines, like in Russian roulette, they were affecting the people, specially children, which were left affected from an early age with symptoms that wanted to be passed for idiocy.

That's how so many people still think today that these poisoned people "were born like that".

The truth is, there is a lot of complicity of people that did never care about knowing how things really were, but they just stood with what they were told.

The thing is like this.

There are people that don't need to be poisoned to be idiots, they are just born like that.

And there are people that were left with certain stupidity because of having been poisoned from a very young age, and then they couldn't develop their brain properly.

And there are people that were left poisoned in some moment of their life, after having developed, and could realize.

The horrendous crime against humanity taking place for decades without anyone defending.

How could this happen?

To understand why these things happen, one must talk about many different subjects.

This, in essence, is called learned helplessness. To let one himself be killed. Anyone knowing that this or that is poisoned and not doing anything about it, is letting himself be killed, and letting his neighbor suffer also.

What would make people such cowards? Mainly sexual immorality.

Anything making one feel guilty, would make him afraid of death, and lead him to look the other way, allowing such things to happen.

That's why, many times, people that one would think they are trust worthy, the white smock, are no different than any person walking outside the hospital or the clinic, because they came out from that same society.

That's how psychopaths can get into many laboratories, being able to hide it well, since many times people judge by the face, or trust the person because of having a "title", "they studied".

That the waking up be not so hard, because that's why I write these things.

Furthering the subject of autism, the name says it all.

It means to be isolated one within himself.

Why would it be?

Anyone looking at an "autistic" should see a poisoned person.

To have pain when making eye contact is a symptom of poisoning.

To want to be always alone, is a symptom of poisoning because the person is feeling awkward, and is so poisoned that when she tries to express herself, it just goes wrong and she feels embarrassed.

Many times she can't move her legs very well, goes around clumsily, and even, is difficult for her to pay attention.

This is because organochlorines keep the sodium channels open, causing the cell to be stuck in a state of excitotoxicity.

That's why they also become very intolerant to stimulus.

Even, the poisoning is systematic, it goes further organochlorines or things that be drugs.

For example, among the effects of organochlorines seems to be the cell not being able to detoxify properly, leading to the metabolic waste to build up.

And then, when the cell is able to detox, it throws them all of a sudden, causing the poisoning of the blood. This would go together with a strong putrid taste in the mouth, which is very common among those tagged "autistic".

So, let's remember, the solution is to clean the blood.

And the subject of autism has always been a matter of dosis. With few organochlorines, the person would be tagged "Asperger's", and with many, then "autistic". That's why it is called autistic spectrum disorder.

Many chronic illnesses are just symptoms of poisoning.

And poisons usually come mixed those of different kinds, for example, organochlorines, with organophosphates, with mercury.

And each one will have a different effect, and different routes and times of clearance.

That's how, for example, the presence of some metals in the intestine can cause what is known as a manic crisis.

And if the person was to fall in the hands of a psychiatrist or a doctor in the emergency room, the affected would end up receiving something that wouldn't be precisely what he needs: an antidopaminergic, or a benzodiazepine.

And very probably the person would end up installed in a supposed treatment, long term, with any of these drugs.

When with the use of activated charcoal her symptoms would have gone away, and it would have been left clear that the person just had some poison in her gastrointestinal tract.

Also, the effect of organophosphates can lead to what has been tagged as a "panic attack". Just the effect of the irreversible inhibition of the enzyme acetylcholinesterase can cause difficulty to breathe, among the rest of associated symptoms.

Administering properly the reactivators, already discovered since decades, could show if it is like this or not.

And regarding the spiritual poisoning, which is not minor, the effect of many of these poisons can leave the person in an energetic flatline, with frustration, which would leave her susceptible of falling prey to vices and addictions like watching pornography and masturbating.

And then, how would that person feel? Worse.

And there are many things in play as well, like the combination with being fat.

Many poisons are lipophilic, which means that they can get stored in the fat. And this when people come in general fat like they have never been in the history of humanity.

There are many elephants in the room that are not being talked about, which only makes it more obvious that there is a systematic plan to kill the people, which we need to stop immediately.

If there happened to be a shortage of food, many people would lose weight all of a sudden, being affected by a huge amount of different problems, which can be imagined after having read this article.

So to avoid this, we need to free hemodialysis.

And we have to educate the people.

And we have to make ourselves sure that people don't be lacking anything, because this calls for war.

But let it begin, because one could never feel more proud. This will be the war of good against evil.

Guillermo Yacante Afonso.

March 11, 2024.

This is the second version of this article. The first had to be redone because at first I thought that autism was caused by organophosphates. In any ways, there are many things that could be helpful, and anyone could read them following this link.

Understanding the world

I try to make my articles straightforward, making the best use of the time of the people.

We are not for distractions, to be minding "conspiracy theories" to not be doing anything about them.

Never in the history of humanity people knew more and did less.

There has to be an explanation for this, right?

There is. We need to understand the world.

Bringing down the Matrix

What is a matrix? An invention. A bubble.

People living in concrete jungles, running in the hamster wheel? That's a matrix.

People thinking they came from the monkeys, living in a Godless world? That's the Matrix.

We are bringing that down. At least I am.

In the beginning

In the beginning God created the Heaven and the Earth.

And God created the angels, and mankind.

The first to be created was the man, then came the woman, for the man.

The man represents God, it's his image and likeness. As God rules the Universe, so the man is to rule the Earth.

As God created everything for his glory, so God created women to be the glory of men.

And the first woman was created from the first man, from his side. This way, the man is inclusive of women, but women do not include the man. God set the principle of authority and order since the beginning.

And then, from women all the males and females of the world are born. Everything is balanced. God is God of order, and harmony.

But some angels rebelled against God, and were disobedient. They were cursed and became absolutely evil, with their only purpose set to destroy the works of God, corrupt and deceive.

So the Devil ended up deceiving the innocent mankind, Adam and Eve, which were thereafter deprived of their eternal life, and were cast out of paradise, the Garden of Eden.

God promised since the beginning that he would send the Saviour, the Messiah that would save mankind from her sins.

And so he did.

Firstly he set some chosen people to be the ones from the which he would rise. This was the ancient nation of Israel.

And from the Jews, Jesus Christ came.

He did carry his ministry, taught and preached the good news of salvation, and as it was needed, he died for the sins of those who were and are to believe in him. Because that's the requisite for salvation: faith. Faith based upon understanding.

Close to two thousand years after his crucifixion, here we are.

The world changed a lot, specially in the last hundred years.

Two world wars, but why have they been?

The recent history

Three hundred years ago the world had monarchies, not "republics".

The true essence of government is absolute power ranging down in a pyramidal scheme of hierarchy.

When this is hidden, or complicated, is because there is something wrong going on.

It's all about the people forming part of the power structure being worthy. Worthy by fear of God, interest in serving the people, and being in capacity of ruling well.

It's not so much about form of government, but about being noble. But always the correct form of government would be monarchy.

Bringing the case again the existence of the Devil and his minions, they never want the happiness of the people, the common good.

That's why they have always incited some kind of people: the psychopaths, towards full blown evil.

Someone knowing something important? They wanting to have the knowledge alone, to keep the masses ignorant, and they be ruling over slaves. That's the mentality of psychopaths in power.

As their nature is evil, they just want to get off, and they do it eventually trying to kill, destroy, mock, humiliate, and try to get out with theirs even. It's all self-destruction.

What is that kind of people good for? For absolutely nothing. They just come to the world to be plucked away like bad weeds.

As the gardener has to take care of the garden, and keep it nice and clean, so the ministers of Justice are to keep the world free of psychopaths, killing them.

This is the true education. Never heard this in school, did you?

But who have been in charge of the educational programs lately, let's say, for the last hundred years?

Alright, here we go.

The French Revolution

The French Revolution took place in the 18th century, and it marked a pattern of actions that would take place in the rest of the world.

The overthrowing of the monarchies, to replace them for a system of hidden monarchies under the name and disguise of republic, and a biased, deceptive name of "democracy".

No more kings ruling until they died and passing their rule to the ones they chose, but some fancy new form of government that people were manipulated to accept.

How could this happen? Why would such a thing be done?

Because of evil. Because of organized crime, because of psychopaths planning things together under the influence and guidance of the demons. There's always a spiritual side in all of this.

That's why first some psychopaths had to gather the influence and money so they be able to overthrow the monarchies of the time.

This was done through the banking system and the purchase of the mainstream media of the time.

This is the origin, let's say, of the Zionist terrorism.

The name of Jew is always, and always will be a good name. But as I say always, the Zionist terrorists want to induce the people to attack the innocent blending in between them that nothing have to do with their deeds.

No room for straw man's arguments, I always speak in detail, as it has to be. No excuses.

So this way they were able to set themselves in the shadows, ruling secretly, and shaping the societies in which they were set.

They always had in mind taking over the education system among the priorities, and gathering more and more power, as in monopoly.

They knew this would take some generations. Because they had to deal little by little with the people so for them to not grow aware.

Aware of what? What is the plan of the Devil? To kill, steal, and destroy.

This is not about "money", at the end of the line.

What would we characterize the 20th century by? Technologic advancement. Exponential technologic advancement.

And who were in government at the moment of this? Good people? Either they were not good, or they were stupid.

Technology was eventually used as a weapon against the people because of lack of education.

Remember that first, the concept of God and religion was attacked, mocked, and dissuaded, so to bring the people to not have a firm anchor in their life. The Matrix has been all about founding the lives of people over a lie, a big lie, stable like the sand.

That's why they became wise in their own opinion, confusing themselves with their explanations of the world, and setting no fundamentals for living in righteousness. This has been essential for advancing ungodliness.

Magazines came first in terms of pornography. Lack of education has always been a constant.

The people were never given the true sexual education. This would be: sex is for marriage only, and reserve ejaculation for procreation if you are smart. There is no need for "contraceptive methods" because semen retention is good alone. But sex is to be had for pleasure all the couple please. This is the true sex education.

So after magazines, video came. And the forms of video became more arousing, discrete, as time passed.

The decay of humanity, her art, looks, and behaviour have been ever worsening with the pass of time because of sexual immorality.

Little by little, as the people were unaware, and distracted with the new forms of technology, the poisoning started to take place without many people knowing.

Something had to be said. So the mental conditioning was founded since the beginning.

21st century

As the enemies had already all the influence of the education system and the governments for long time since, the poisoning had been hidden under names of disguise. Mafia languages.

Some child injured by a vaccine secretly containing some organochlorines? That would be tagged "autism", or "Asperger's", depending on the degree of the poisoning.

Some folk got poisoned with some metals or some pesticides? Is he acting weird? Looks creepy? Then he would be tagged "schizophrenic", so to be given something that would never heal him, because something always has to be said.

The Devil always likes to put things upside-down, that's why he would call that that is good, evil. And that that be evil, good.

Serotonergics be flattering emotions, leading people to learned helplessness? Then serotonin has to be the "happy hormone".

Is dopamine the excitement neurotransmitter, needed for motivation? Then "schizophrenics" have too much of it, let's give them antidopaminergics and call them by some marketing name: antipsychotics. They sell themselves.

The lie is so big, that people would distrust that it be the case. The deeds of the psychopaths sometimes are so cruel, that people lots of times think that it couldn't be possible. It's the same.

The new order of things could only be possible with the confusion of the vocabulary and the insertion of words that people be repeating to confuse themselves and their peers. All based upon ignorance. People were never given anything with what to compare. This even, when many had lost the moral authority so to stand in the middle and defend.

The enemies confused the people, led men to be weak, and didn't lead women to try to strengthen their men, but to take over their place, and want to call it "normal". Neurosis set in and all the society got entangled.

Lack of order, death penalty, and moral authority led to the social constipation that can be seen in many parts of the world.

The Devil has been breeding unopposed many people for the Great Killing, as he has been planning it.

But against all the odds, from one of the most punished countries of the world, the Great Reckoning is coming. This is Argentina. The country with the flag of the sky, is the one that Heaven chose.

And as it was fair, God is giving all of us the choice so for us to have our decision. The Third World War will be that of good against evil, as it has been never in the history of the world wars.

With all the education now put at hand, nothing can stop people from polarizing accordingly.

No one will enforce any religion, but the aspiring to standards, which is different.

Anything that be abominable, not wanting to accept the standards of normal, is not to have part in this world, specially in the territory of the noble, I will call that Argentina.

So stopping early which was going to be a worldwide genocide, based upon the ignorance of the people, calling pesticide poisoning to be some "virus", to then go and get more pesticides with the injections, the world is set for a new beginning.

But people will harm themselves forgetting more about the Lord. Will throw away the "Before Christ" and "Anno Domini" numbering of the years, for very probably some "TP", "AP". Time Past, and After the Past.

Some may argue, if "Before the Procer", and "After the Procer", or "After the Project", or whatever, but the world will remain polarized.

Europe is set to be stuck in "1984". And the rest of the world, we shall see.

Take the right decision. The world may choose Barabbas again, but majorities in general are never right. Be a thinker, choose Jesus, and endure to the end.

Heaven and Earth shall pass away, but the words of Jesus shall not.

Be firm in him, firm anchor of the soul.

Guillermo Yacante Afonso.

Things clear

The world will have to reinvent itself.

And this will find a lot of people in an uncomfortable situation, because, in one side they will see that this is what is needed for the common good, to leave the lie, to do things as they always should have been done. But the lie was getting that people paid. At the expense of the slave work of others, and their lack of health, and their dying little by little, living like zombies.

We need to do things, but to do them well.

And not all the people are the same. We don't want to please everyone.

What we really need to do, is polarize towards good, what I would call nobility.

For this we need all of us disentangled. But this would be us that care. Some people don't care about anything, they say: "we gotta die of something". That people should die of something in the very moment they say that. We don't want shit people around us. When solutions are all put at hand, then there is no excuse.

So the first thing I would bring the attention to is setting ourselves free of sexual immorality. It really is the major cause of being ran over, of learned helplessness, of lack of moral authority, and not caring about anything in life.

Sex brings such a strong desire, that is related to the reason why people, specially men, try to get better and improve all their skills so to have it as they always wanted, with a beautiful woman, in a nice house, and living in a nice country. That's how it should be. Order.

But sex outside of marriage, what is called fornication, only brings pain to everyone. It is a dishonor for the woman, for her family members, and speaks bad of the man that sullies her, if he doesn't plan on marrying her ever.

And if a society normalizes this, that would be a chaotic society, underdeveloped, easily conquered and enslaved.

So the priority is to set and keep ourselves free of sexual immorality.

Really, I would put first of all here being free of porn consumption and masturbation.

Masturbation rarely happens without pornography. It's pornography what we should be most wary of.

So this is key: one must be careful with the use of the screens. I have been able to stay away from pornography, so far for more than two years straight, because of having understood this. One must see for himself. This is personal. No one can impose anything to other. Let each see for himself only.

I have been, because of my poisoning, absolutely vulnerable. I became autistic. So to understand the level of organochlorine poisoning that I had. So my energies were absolutely dirty, stagnated, blocked. This could leave anyone susceptible to fall.

Because of this, I decided to practically not use my cell phone. I quit every social media. I only used my phone for a purpose. If I had to search anything I would do it in the moment and then put it down. Never scrolling mindlessly, and always paying attention to what kind of effect it was producing in me.

That's how I learnt that there is a synergy operation going on without many people knowing.

Cell phones alone, because of how stimulating they are, have a passive effect when they are lying around in the field of view. They may catch the attention, and bring one to pick it up for no reason, just to find something with what to lose time with, to eventually get hooked up with some porn thing, and end up masturbating.

It's all about not using it idly. And preventing this from happening if one was to be susceptible of it.

We need to prioritize not falling again, and again, and again.

Remember the world is about to collapse, and we need heroes.

And the synergy going on is that many people have some degree of "pesticide" poisoning in them. Be it from food and beverage consumption, or the lifelong injections. And some of these pesticides can cause the crooking of the head, the tendency to get stupid and become vulnerable to vices and perversions. They contaminate the energy.

That's why, for some people the use of some forms of technology may overstimulate them, make them irritable, and lead them to self-medicate with pornography and masturbation. While some others wouldn't have this effect at all.

But this chronic poisoning can even twist the heads of the people, confusing them about their sexuality, more so if they have already bitten the porn trap. It's all an induction to error. A system mounted to get all the people hooked in some problem, to then get them killing each other in the destruction of the Matrix. That's what the common enemy has worked for.

So some people they are just born crooked, like psychopaths, some are just born sodomites, but others are just confused, and would get corrected.

Next is to be and remain free of having sex outside of marriage.

People would be found very vulnerable in the moment the Matrix goes down.

Men and women mingled. Women dressing improperly. No one understanding pretty much the roles. Neurosis. Chaos.

We need to prevent fooling ourselves.

If we don't want to have sex with the one we are not married to, we should not be found alone in closed spaces with the opposite gender. If the other person is not attractive to one, and so he or she says "there is no problem", that is an insult to the other person. Distance should be had in any case.

Now, what is marriage? Marriage is a lifelong contract between a man and a woman to love each other, and remain faithful one to the other until death should make them part. Only death can put an end to marriage. This concept brings stability, but what we all must know is how to make it work.

Because I know that a lot of people could react in neurosis trying to bring to case how it "didn't work for his parents", or "how it was like that before, but he saw his grandmother cheated and couldn't do anything about that". We don't want to bring those cases, self-sabotaging.

We want to know how to make it work. Stay away from pornography, the man be practicing semen retention so to keep himself polarized, masculine, and be treating his wife accordingly. Good sex keeps the couple happy.

Was not so difficult, was it?

But an important thing is to be married to the right person. Many people could be found in a makeshift couple today, just fooling around, and the woman may say to the man, "would you marry me?" Or the man may ask the woman to be his lifelong partner. Here we could find different scenarios.

Never get married because of pressure. In fact, what I want to be known is that many people will find themselves with partners they were just using. That's right, using. We need to cut this right now. Men, keep your frame, and don't act needy. Let the woman be free and choose for herself. And if the man needed to free himself, let him just do it.

But those that would be found already married, they are still married. Make yourselves responsible.

A person has been married, let's say, three times? She never widowed? The person is married to the first spouse, everything else has been adultery. I say this for if you want to please God. No one will enforce any religion, but I say these things so for passing the message complete.

So if the person doesn't or can't join with the true spouse, she should be staying "single", between comas, because otherwise she would be sinning. That's the law of God.

And when there be order, that it be known, it's the father of the woman which decides if she is getting married or not, and to whom.

Sons and daughters belong to the father, and a man can choose his life for himself, but the women are subject to their according masculine authority. Father if they are single, or husband if they are married.

Dress code is nothing too much revealing, both for women and men. Tank tops should not be used when both genders are found together.

Pants are for men alone. Women have their skirts and dresses, always having in count that they should cover their knees when they be standing.

For us Christians we have a commandment of God. That the woman be using a head covering when she be praying or sharing the Gospel to another. This stands for a symbol of authority, that she is under the authority of men. The long hair doesn't replace it.

Anyone wanting to bother us from pleasing our God, will have a problem, both with us, and our God.

We will not impose any religion, but make yourselves sure you don't stand in the middle.

And now I want to remind that the destruction of the Matrix will find a lot of people vulnerable.

The project is all about worldwide cooperation. Remember it is based upon a book: "Modern Procer Project NOW!", please read it. Thank you.

And that no one be lacking anything, be it water, be it food, be it good company, protection, and peace.

For living in a world in order, there is a price to pay. Men are those in charge of fighting the wars, as has always been.

Let the children and women stay together in their places of protection when the men be out there fighting. Don't have one place for keeping all the people, just as don't let the people be all of them each in their houses.

This should be quick and easy if done properly.

We have war with the sodomites, with the drug pushers, with the kidnappers, with the psychopaths, with the people that have done the psychological warfare. Not one of them will remain alive if they don't repent. And as psychopaths never repent, don't let them fool anyone with their trying to mock someone to then hit back the unawares. Discernment. And let common sense rule.

And so to finish this article, to not be spooked about "the end of the world".

We are for making a reckoning, then the world will join naturally towards what is his, deception. Majorities choose Barabbas. Majorities go to Hell.

They will forget about the Lord, will be coerced to accept the rule of the last pope of Catholicism, the conditions to form part of his system, and will end up trying to kill all the Christians of the world, and anyone not surrendering.

They will have what they deserve. As it is written in the book of Revelation, they have the last seven plagues for them. The judgement of the seven bowls.

The times and the hour of the return of the Lord are only known to him. Don't be speculating with dates, or that "these number of years now have to pass", because it's not like that. Just be paying attention to enduring to the end in holiness and faithfulness to him, and that it will happen all of a sudden. If we are to be expecting a "lightning", between comas, we need to expect ourselves being in a storm. This is all that can be said.

Guillermo Yacante Afonso.

Call to action

For making a call to action, one must first be sure he and the rest will be able to move forward without anything bothering in the middle.

That's why first I have prioritized education, with the book and the rest of the articles. The true education, that which empowers, and destroys the strategies of division that the enemy has sown in our societies.

So with this already settled, what I would like to do next is to prevent any kind of guilt in our consciences or that it be thrown to us by others.

For example, I would like to talk about my case. I have a son, today a young teenager, and I have never been able to be with him, to raise him, or to even visit him and be a normal father. I have always been disabled since I have been an adult.

When I was in my teenage years, I already got poisoned with some injections, those called vaccines, and I was left with a schizoid personality.

Then, when finally I was able to quit my lifelong vices, and was about to settle my head, the worse poisoning of my life took place. I was left autistic because of having drank poisoned yerba mate without realizing, and this for years. The same not only left me "autistic", but with problems moving my legs, modulating my voice, with a dumb look in my face because of the face muscle paralysis, with pain when making eye contact, and lots of contractures in my back and difficulty walking.

And people normally call that "autism". Isn't it a symptom of poisoning? It is.

How many years have passed with this thing around, eh!

This speaks horrible of the people.

And I, without any "university degree", have discovered not only the cause of "autism", but the cure even.

And still, like "nothing happened here".

I want to close the subject of my son and say that I love him. I would have already made my move and be there with him, but I am still poisoned. Seems like no one cares. Because the theoretic solution I know, but the thing is off reach if people don't react as a society.

So the solution to a lot of chronic illnesses, even some supposed to not have a cure at all, is simply cleaning the blood and the cells from their poisons. And for this, hemodialysis would be the treatment of choice.

Properly done hemodialysis, as I always say.

And for those that have been suffering from organophosphate poisoning, which irreversibly inactivates the enzyme acetylcholinesterase, the reactivators should be used.

This has always been the cure of "autism". I have not been the first to discover it, but I plan on being the first in making it reach the people and pass the New Iron Curtain.

For this, we need to demand it. How many people have in their family autistic members? This condition brings a lot of suffering, and it has been all poisoning. Do I have to say that psychopaths have been putting in some vaccines, like in Russian roulette, some "pesticides", and that's how infant autism is explained? Isn't that criminal?

We need to stop all vaccinations. We educate, then we enforce. We don't want shit people defending mass poisoning.

And we need to make hemodialysis go mainstream as a treatment for many illnesses and conditions. This is the way to speed recovery intelligently without losing red blood cells.

Blood poisoning has been hidden in plain sight. Any man having premature ejaculation? That is usually a sign of blood poisoning. Not a "lack of desensitizing cream". Isn't it obvious?

Remember organized crime has been working towards advancing the poisoning without the people being aware, using smokescreens.

We are for undoing all of that.

Following on with the idea of call to action, I want to speak again about something personal of mine, remembering that we don't want people throwing guilt at us, or trying to bring us down. That will always speak evil of those, and put them under the spotlight, bringing to case what kind of people they are.

So I want to say this, both for being transparent, if I am doing something like this, and for inspiring empathy for others. For a space of close to four months I have been seeing escorts. The last four months of 2023, practically. I have never been led by desire, but because of stagnation, energetic blockage. It has been all an intent to blunt the pain, and I have repented of each time I have gone. This could happen to anyone.

So moving forward, I want all the justiciars to be able to advance unrestrained. We are for bringing order. We don't ask for permission.

So let's help ourselves, and take care of the good numbers. That if they are going to be many or few, I don't know. But we are for taking care of them.

It's all about efficiency. A person has potential? Is she aspiring for good, but is poisoned? Let her receive her treatment.

A man is brave? Is a good fit for a soldier? But is alone? No, we need to form armies. It's all about organization.

We don't want to be thinned in number even more. It's the number of the psychopaths which we need to thin as much as we can.

So we need to get prepared and advance as an army.

Don't be afraid of hierarchies and following orders, but let them be leaders those that be worthy because of being able, and caring for the common good, being all a good example. Let this happen when people be able to know each other.

Guerrilla fighting may take place in the crude beginning. Let it all be a war of good against evil. Never get mingled with the perverse.

And understand that our best deal is always to kill the psychopaths. We don't take them prisoners, we don't negotiate with them. We don't give them conversation, we don't torture them, we don't try to play epic scenes with them, we kill them straightforward. They will have torture in Hell.

And if any of them was to take hostages, a hostage is always to be counted as a lost person. One never negotiates with psychopaths, but what one can do is to take his chances, and see if he can rescue the person. But one must be cold in these decisions.

And if a psychopath was to push a “red button”, setting in countdown some danger, and happened to try to play the riddle with the people, the psychopath is never to be had as necessary. The best that we can do for ourselves is to put him down, and take our chances trusting in God. Faith is shown by our actions. This is a common pattern to be shown always.

And remember that among the priorities is to purge the mainstream media. To do it properly. No innocent be paying, no psychopath be escaping. We are to be proud of our actions always.

Because, who would tell the people what is going on? The psychopaths? No, God forbid. Let us rush through it, because at first, time is everything.

Don't allow yourselves to be hypnotized, and pay attention to the effect of screens in each of you, because at the beginning this is going to be crucial. Don't get distracted. Keep moving.

And next is, don't let women be a snare. Flee fornication. Sex is for marriage.

This should be enough.

I don't make “new content” for keeping people glued to the screen. In fact, I hate that. “Subscribe and hit the...” No.

Move it.

God bless you.
